THE PHILOSOPHY OF LAUGHING. There are three muscles to draw the mouth up, and only one to draw it down; which elgnifies that are to laugh three times as much as we cry. usughing promotes digestion, by jarring the internal organs. Every organ in the human system requires exercise to maintain it in health, bence laughing was intended to regulate the internal organs. Many people resort to medicine to restore that which might equalises the circulation and produces a general excitement of the system, highly conducive tohue of a young lady's cheek after indulging in a hearty laugh. Some people laugh in their sleeves, and some behind the door; these are smothered laughs, and are highly injurious to the system. There are many other laughs, such as the giggle, the snicker, the twist of the mouth, &c., &c., all of which are spurious and injurious. The true and genuine laugh, which,

A BURIAL SCANDAL. A "burial scandal" is reported from Carassonne, the character of which was as strange as its sequel was deplorable. A funeral procession was on its way through the churchyard, sident of a local benefit society to which the iccessed belonged that the bearers walked too slowly, adding that if the body did not reach having distanced the body by some paces, be Gantto gave the absolution, aprinkled the empty grave with holy water, and withdrew just as the bearers came up. He then took off his vestments, and returned to confront the mourners. A sharp altercation ensued, and, being asked why he had taken off his sacerdotal ornaments, he said it was in order to be able to answer all comers, and that he was not a priest at that bridesgroup. Hitherto their intercourse with the moment. On this a member of the benefit Boolety angrily assured his unsympathetic pastor that he should hear of this again, and immediately fell down dead.—Pall Mall Gazelle.

A DOUBLE EXECUTION. The Opinion Nationals publishes a letter from Barcelona containing a dramatic account of a double execution which has just taken place in several times to impose silence on her. The most dietjugnished ladies of the locality attended the woman to offer their consolations. The man was surrounded by monks. During all that times the boys of the choir, olad in red, yellow, or blue, from head to foot, went through the streets, a salver in one hand and a bell in the other, asking for alms to meet the wants of the condemned prisoners, on carta and in heaven; that is to say, for the good of their interment and the performance of masses for their souls. The execution by the garrote (strangling) took place outside one of the gates of the city, in a plain to which the victims were conducted by a long procession of penitents. The corpses remained until 6 in the evening. for more than 10 hours, exposed to the gaze of a crowd which came to contemplate eagerly the horrible contortions their faces had undergone.

Sweetly, sweetly, doth she sing As the lark above her: Surely every living thing That has seen must love her. As she straved and as the stag. Happy little maiden. Shadowy lanes and dells among. With wild flowers laden. Chanced a bonny youth that way, For the lanes were shady; She dropped one wee flower, they say, Did this little lady. Dropped a flower, so they say Dropped, and never missed it; And the youth, alack-a-day? Ricked it up and kissed it. Now in sweet land wanderings, With love flowers ladent, With her love she strays and sings, Happy little maideu! -Tinsley's Magazine. THE INFLUENCE OF ARCTIC COLD

Lieutenant Payer, the Austrian Arctic explorer, has been laying some of the esults of his explorations before the Geographical Society at Vienna. Referring to the influence of extreme cold on the human organism, he related that on March 14, 1874. he and his companions made a sledge journey BATAVIA SEA AND FIRE INSURANCE over the Samiklar glacier, in order to make observations of Francis-Joseph Land. On that day the cold marked forty degrees. (Reaumur) below zero. Notwithstanding this intense cold, M. Payer and a Tvrolese went out before sunrise to make observations and sketch. The sunrise was magnificent; the sun seemed surrounded, as in London, or at the principal per if does at a high degree of cold, by small suns, and its light appeared more dazzling THIED PER CENT. will be allowed on all LOCAL from the contrast with the extreme cold. RISKS. The travellers were obliged to pour rum down their throats so as not to touch the edge of the metal cups, which would have been as dangerous as if they had been redhot; but the rum had lost all its strength upon the current local rates will be allowed on and its liquidity, and was as flat and thick all premium charged for insurance; such disas oil. It was impossible to smoke either cigars, or tobacco in short pipes, for very soon nothing but a piece of ice remained in the mouth. The metal of the instru ments was just like red-hot iron to the touch. as were some lockets, which some of the travellers romantically, but imprudently, continued to wear next the skin. M. Payer says that so great an amount of cold paralyses the will, and that, under its influence, men, from the unsteadiness of their gait, their stammering talk, and the slowness of their mental operations, scom as if they were intoxicated.

Besides, enough can never be taken to quench the thirst; as a temperature of 30° to 40° helow zero makes it taste like molten metal. Snow-eaters in the North are considered as feeble and effeminate, in the same way as an opium-eater in the East. The groups of travellers who traversed the snow-fields were surrounded by thick vapours formed by the emanations from their bodies, which became condensed, notwithstanding the furs in which the travellers were enveloped. These vapours fell to the ground with a slight noise, frozen into the form of small crystals, and rendered the atmosphere thick, impenetrable, and dark. Notwithstanding sensation of dryness was felt. Every sound diffused itself to a very long distance; an ordinary conversation could be heard at a hundred paces off, whilst the report of guns from the top of high mountains could scarcely be heard. Payer exp.ains this pheno-Both smell and taste become greatly en- Ourrent Rates. feebled in these latitudes, strength gives way under the paralysing influence of the cold, the eyes involuntarily, close and become When locomotion stops the sole of the foot becomes insensible. SKATING RINKS. The most infatuating of all wintry sports has been placed within our reach at all seasons of the year. You the most infatuating. I have been a skater, man and boy, for fifty years; but for the greater part of that time | mepared to grant Insurances as follows:-my pleasure has been in imagination only. so many winters have passed without ice, or Policies at current rates, payable either here. where ice was spoilt by snow, or perhaps by n London, or at the principal Ports of India, roughs and hockey, or where ponds were not, or even when illness interfered with the few. the very few, wished for days. Winter after -winter, every brother skater has hailed meas a kindred soul, and we both vowed to look out for ice and give each other the earliest information; and yet how often has the sun a regained its power, and, with lengthening days, left us to dream of skating for the year to come! With this taste for the real thing -for skating proper-with what feelings did I receive the tidings of this new invention? -Most incredulously; even with con-I had seen the old indiaspite of their success at the opera in the bal patinees, and I had once ploughed my way tow and are prepared to grant Insurances at through some heavy substitute of soap and alum thirty years since at the Baker-street Bazaar : so I thought I could prove a negative as to the possibility of rellers, under the PHENIX FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY. feet being endurable to one who knew the ring and the elasticity of real deep blue ice. But soon I found two of the best skaters of the day delighted with these "rolling abomi- Pert, are prepared to grant Policies against nations," as once I had heard them called. Yes, and delighted before they knew one-fifth part of the power they command when use has reduced the friction to a minimum. bave now watched the Brighton rink, and sometimes five bundred skaters at a fime. for one year, yet even within the last few weeks I have been surprised at the increasing powers and facilities of roller-skaters. For ten years has this skating been known in America, till every large city has its skating hall, often but a sixth part the size of Prince's, and under cover too; are the same as those charged by the Local but never did Mr. Plimpton see open-air Companies, less a discount of 20 %. roller-skating, nor skating continued all the year round, till he saw the Brighton rink, which Mr. Prince so promptly copied. For ten years has many a Yankee, "as acuta as a waggon-load of monkeys," tried in vain to invent any other skate to divide the profits of the Plimpton patent. To make a skate admitting of all the powers of the ice-skate, simple enough to be used by those of the meanest comprobension, not too costly for the average burse, and not too ingenious; complicated, or brittle for the roughest wear all this was comprised in the problem to be worked, and a marvel of ingenuity too. Tell any mechanic that four wheels, as on a child's horse, are made to turn almost like the turn-table of a carriage, and subjected to all the twisting and wrenching of the most violent skating, with strains lateral as vertical, and he will hardly believe that such a combination can stand the nocessary wear and tear. But so it is. There is no figure skated by the London Skating THE SECOND COLONIAL SEA AND Club which we have not proved to be possible on the Brighton rink. Gentlemen well known have already private rinks, with a limited concession from Mr. Primpton. "Tea and skating, 4 p.m." is their usual invitation; and all this evidence attention. True at Liverpool and at Bath it had been introduced, but this was comparatively in a corner. Brighton was the centre from which it first radiated. It was there commenced, on the 19th of February. 1874, in the only form then known to Mr. Plimpton-that is, under cover, and as an wooden floor. But, in the month of May, the | npon insurances effected with this Company, rink made at Hove two years before for iceskating had been drained of its water, the cemented floor proved available, and ladies -ladies, with parasols over their heads and skates under their teet, and the floor presenting quite the appearance of ice produced a novel and incongruous, but at the same time a most pleasing, spectacle. -- Belgravia.
